ORGAN PROCUREMENT IN THE UNITED STATES[a] (1988–2013)

There is around 100,000 candidates on the waiting list for an organ transplant

[a] Only the 48 adjacent states, the District of Columbia, Delaware, Idaho, Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, and Wyoming are shown. Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico are not shown.

Source: Data: United Network for Organ Sharing

Note: Data for 1988 to 1994 are estimated based on incomplete data. Transplant statistics for 1988–2013. The number of the transplants in the United States, by donor type and recipient waiting list additions, by type of the organ needed, and the number of people removed from the waiting list as a result of death while awaiting transplantation are presented by the U.S. Government.

Years